Work experience

Full Stack Developer

08/2019 - current

RightCode Dev Labs

- Developed Single Page Applications from scratch, While following strict guidelines and conventions, Using best practices and exploring best implementation ways across the web.
- Refactored old/bad written projects codes using the most relevant and stable technologies, Improving readability, performance and stability.
- As one of the most experienced developers in the company(which mostly had inexperienced people), I helped teaching and setting right foundations for the new developers, explaining Why and How, and not Just WHAT.

About myself

A 26 years old B.Sc of Computer Science student on my last year at Holon Institute of Technology - 95 score average. Been working as a Full Stack Developer since the middle of my second year, teaching myself lots of technologies which I needed for the purposes of my work with many projects on different programming languages. I'm highly motivated, eager to learn and get better every single day. My curiosity and ambitions drive me to improve each and every day and give more of myself to everyone expecting from me, mainly myself. Not less important, I'm a friendly person who loves teamworking, teaching and learning from others BUT also embracing the approach of self learning.
